

CULTURAL EXHIBITIONS GUIDE

Paris Île-de-France 2011

Paris Happening

The winning crop of the Paris Île-de-France 2011 Cultural Exhibitions Guide has arrived. This Guide presents “the” cultural events to the tourism professionals to whom it is primarily addressed, an artistic map of the region in the coming months.

Manet will be at Orsay, Baselitz at the musée d’Art moderne de la Ville de Paris, Gertrude, Sarah and Léo Stein will discover Cézanne, Matisse and Picasso at the Grand Palais and the Pinacothèque will relate the creation of the collections of the Tsars. Swords are drawn simultaneously at Paris and at Écouen, at the musée du Moyen Âge and the musée de la Renaissance. Four centuries of history at Versailles are celebrated at the Château, while the people of Paris are invited to Carnavalet and the tragic fate of the King of Rome is evoked at Fontainebleau. Brassens sings at the Cité de la Musique (a dedication). The Cinémathèque française will turn over its screens to that greatest of filmmakers, Kubrick, and its exhibition spaces to that greatest of films, Metropolis. A nostalgic trip onboard the France at the Marine and on the metro at the musée des arts et métiers.

You will find the details and more in the Guide for the 2011 season, themed as a lavish cultural “happening”, enhanced by the quality and range of institutions and the professionals behind them. Let us express our gratitude to them first and foremost.

CITÉ DE LA MUSIQUE | From 15th March to 21st August 2011

Brassens or Freedom

After Lennon, Hendrix and Miles Davis, the Cité de la musique continues its celebration of the giants of popular music with Georges Brassens.

The organisation of the exhibition has been entrusted to a duo of fervent Brassens admirers, one of whom is the comic strip author and filmmaker Joann Sfar. He paints a portrait which is both novel and surprising, tracing a path that is more entertaining than pedagogical. A singer and musician of world renown, a man of conviction, Georges Brassens is a unique figure. This stroll through a forest of trees is permeated throughout with his libertarian soul. Hitherto unknown documents, sound archives, photographs and guitars are supplemented by forums and concerts. An opportunity to linger a while in the artist's world. This first major exhibition devoted to Brassens is an absolute must-visit.

LA CINÉMATHEQUE FRANÇAISE | From 23rd March to 31st July 2011

Stanley Kubrick

2001: A Space Odyssey, Barry Lyndon, The Clockwork Orange, Shining and Eyes Wide Shut number among the great classics of modern American cinema. Thanks to an exhibition completely new to France, the visitor can enter the captivating world of their creator. Through exclusive documents provided by the Stanley Kubrick Fund, it takes us into the heart of the productions and projects of this major 20th century filmmaker. Stanley Kubrick is also an innovator in special effects, which are revealed at the exhibition using large-scale models. By following an interactive display, the public can discover the story behind the filming of 2001: A Space Odyssey. In addition, the prints exhibited – most of them unique – exclusively reveal a little known facet of the artist: his talent for photography. Close-up and playful, the exhibition's path is designed for all.

MUSÉE D'ORSAY | From 5th April to 3rd July 2011

Manet, Inventor of the Modern

Édouard Manet (1832-1883), an iconic figure of 19th century art, is acknowledged to be the precursor of modern painting. This significant retrospective is the first in France since 1983. It places Manet squarely in his time. It assesses his influences, his links with the public and political spheres. The exhibition path lingers over the teaching of his master Thomas Couture, Baudelaire's impetus, women in painting (Berthe Morisot, Eva Gonzalès), the reform of religious art, the erotic imagination, earthly temptation, his complicity with Mallarmé... This exhibition represents a complete immersion into the very heart of his work. It is an exploration of his historical and social environment.

MUSÉE DU QUAI BRANLY | From 5th April to 24th July 2011

Dogon*

The art of the Dogon of Mali is one of the most recognisable in Africa. This exhibition examines the history of its art and culture from the 10th century up to the present day. For the first time, 330 exceptional works from collections across the world are brought together in France. In addition to masks and statues, other religious pieces and remarkable everyday objects are on display. They reflect artistic influences and retrace the gradual settlement of the Dogon region. The exhibition thus presents a chronological panorama. Unusually, it gives consideration to the technical expertise applied to the patina of the statues. An aesthetic testimony which goes far beyond the celebrity of Dogon art.

This great Bombay-born British sculptor, currently very in-vogue, is taking over the 13,500m² of the last Crystal Palace in the world. CENTRE POMPIDOU | From 25th May to 19th September 2011

Paris – Delhi – Bombay

A novel concept for an exhibition combining art and society. Here, contemporary art institutes a dialogue between India and France. This innovative approach gives voice to some fifty Indian and French artists.

All forms of artistic expression convey their vision: the plastic arts, fashion, design, architecture, cinema, comic strips, culinary art.

Thus the event offers a platform of exchanges between artistic creators and society. Economics, justice, philosophy... the questioning opens with the concerns and issues of India. Messages are conveyed as the creations unfold. For the visitor, this original exhibition is a new and seductive experience.

Eduard Munch The Modern Eye

This major event casts a fresh eye over the artistic production of Norwegian artist Edvard Munch (1863-1944). Some 70 major works are collected together here thanks to loans from the most prestigious international public collections (the Munch Museum and the National Gallery in Oslo). The exhibition presents an alternative view of the artist, far removed from his image as a symbolist and pre-expressionist. Edvard Munch is in perfect accord with the forms of representation and the modernity of his time. The influences of photography, cinema and theatre on his pictorial work place him as a true 20th century artist. A gallery of striking self-portraits and remarkable vintage prints combine to make this a rare encounter.

MUSÉE DU LOUVRE | Early October 2011 to early January 2012

In the Kingdom of Alexander the Great Ancient Macedonia*

The exhibition presents a remarkable panorama of ancient Macedonia. Around 500 works evoke different aspects of Macedonian civilisation: artistic production, the administration of the kingdom, education, the worlds of men and women, religion and death. Exceptional loans of works hitherto unknown in France further enhance the standing of this exhibition. The history of Macedonia is retraced from the 15th century BC to the era of Imperial Rome. Richly detailed funerary sets illustrate this chronology. The works attest to Macedonia's rise in power against the Greek City-States and explain its development under Roman domination. The fate of the ancient Kingdom of Macedonia is closely linked to that of Alexander the Great. The exhibition accordingly assigns a distinct place to this iconic figure from Antiquity.

GALERIES NATIONALES, GRAND PALAIS, PARIS | From 5th October 2011 to 16th January 2012

The Steins or the invention of modern art Cézanne, Matisse, Picasso

This relates the history of a magnificent collection of modern art. That of the Steins, the first purchasers of Matisse's and Picasso's paintings. Centring on this American family, the exhibition is a collection of 120 masterpieces by exceptional artists of the early 20th century, Cézanne, Matisse, Picasso, Renoir, Bonnard, Picabia among them. It sheds light on the extraordinary characters of the Stein family. The family moved to Paris in the early 1900s and maintained close links with the artistic avant-garde. They convey their taste for modernity to visitors. This event involves inter-museum collaboration at international level: for instance, the Museum Of Modern Art in San Fransisco has sent Matisse's work La femme au chapeau. A major premiere.

JEU DE PAUME | From 18th October 2011 to 5th February 2012

Diane Arbus*

Here is an unmissable retrospective devoted to this major American artist. It brings together almost 200 photographs by Diane Arbus, taken between 1950 and 1971. A 30-year first in France. Inspired by the city of New York, her photographic approach is an anthropological study of society: children, couples, street hawkers, nudists, middle-class families, eccentrics... an unusual viewpoint in which the familiar blends with the bizarre. These audacious portraits of strangers illustrate the relationship between appearance and identity, illusion and belief, theatre and reality. A remarkable and very intimate journey into the heart of 1960s America. Another highlight – the privilege of discovering about twenty brand new prints.

PREVIEW OF 2012 CULTURAL EXHIBITIONS

Matisse Odds and Evens

CENTRE POMPIDOU → INFO P30

From 7th March
to 18th June 2012

Variations on a single theme or pattern are at the heart of Matisse's work. This unusual exhibition presents the development of this very singular process which is a trademark of the artist. In a single subject, he creates compositions, colours, stylization, constructs series. The exhibition path through about sixty painting and thirty graphic works grouped into pairs, triads or series, encompasses Matisse's entire oeuvre and reveals its coherence, the plastic and poetic in all its intensity.

Animal Beauty

GALERIES NATIONALES,
GRAND PALAIS, PARIS → INFO P32

From 14th March
to 16th July 2012

This exhibition is a collection of 160 masterpieces of Western art from the world's greatest museums. The choice is radical and original: in the selected works (painting, sculptures, photographs or naturalists' sketches), animals feature exclusively, self-contained and devoid of human presence. From the Renaissance to the present day, the subject of the animal weaves a link between art and science. Bruegel, Chagall, Degas, Dürer, Giacometti, Manet, Picasso, Rembrandt, Rubens, Van Gogh, Andy Warhol, Louise Bourgeois, Jeff Koons... all demonstrate this.

Tim Burton

LA CINÉMATHEQUE
FRANÇAISE → INFO P30

From 14th March to 29th July 2012

The only event of its kind in Europe, the Cinémathèque française is hosting the exhibition-event created by the New York Museum Of Modern Art. Conceived in collaboration with Tim Burton, the exhibition reflects the bizarre creativity of the director of Edward Scissorhands, Batman and Alice in Wonderland. It is a unique opportunity to gain an insight into the multiple faces of this unusual artist. 700 paintings, drawings, puppets, costumes, comic strips and films transport the visitor into a world of gothic fantasy, against a background of dark humour.

The India of the Great Moguls (1526-1707)

GALERIES NATIONALES,
GRAND PALAIS, PARIS → INFO P32

From 28th March to 9th July 2012

The artistic richness of Mogul India is a subject never before featured in France. This exhibition retraces this great empire's fruitful exchanges with Europe. From the late 16th century, the portraits of Mogul Emperors were circulated in the Hapsburg Court in the form of engravings and miniatures. Reciprocally, it was also engravings that made it possible to import into India such works as portraits by Dürer or Flemish landscapes.

This event presents the treasures of the cultural exchanges between the two continents.

Gerhard Richter

CENTRE POMPIDOU → INFO P30

From 6th June
to 24th September 2012

A homage to one of the greatest living painters of the last 50 years: Gerhard Richter. Comprehensive and chronological, from the 60s to the present day, the retrospective brings together 160 works from public and private collections across the world, and from the artist himself. From figurative paintings from photographs to abstract works and grey monochromes, the exhibition reveals his very varied pictorial styles.

A wonderful celebration of the painter's 80th birthday.

Bohemians

GALERIES NATIONALES,
GRAND PALAIS, PARIS → INFO P32

From 24th September 2012
to 6th January 2013

From society phenomenon to artistic myth, the figure of the Bohemian has been a favourite subject for artists since the 17th century. Their non-conformist lifestyle fascinates and inspires. The first event dedicated to this topic, the exhibition interlinks 200 works of painting, music, photography and cinema. They reflect the influence nomadic people have had on art and explain their essential contribution to the construction of the European identity. A seldom tackled vision of gypsy peoples. A light shone onto a too-often forgotten chapter of our culture.

Edward Hopper

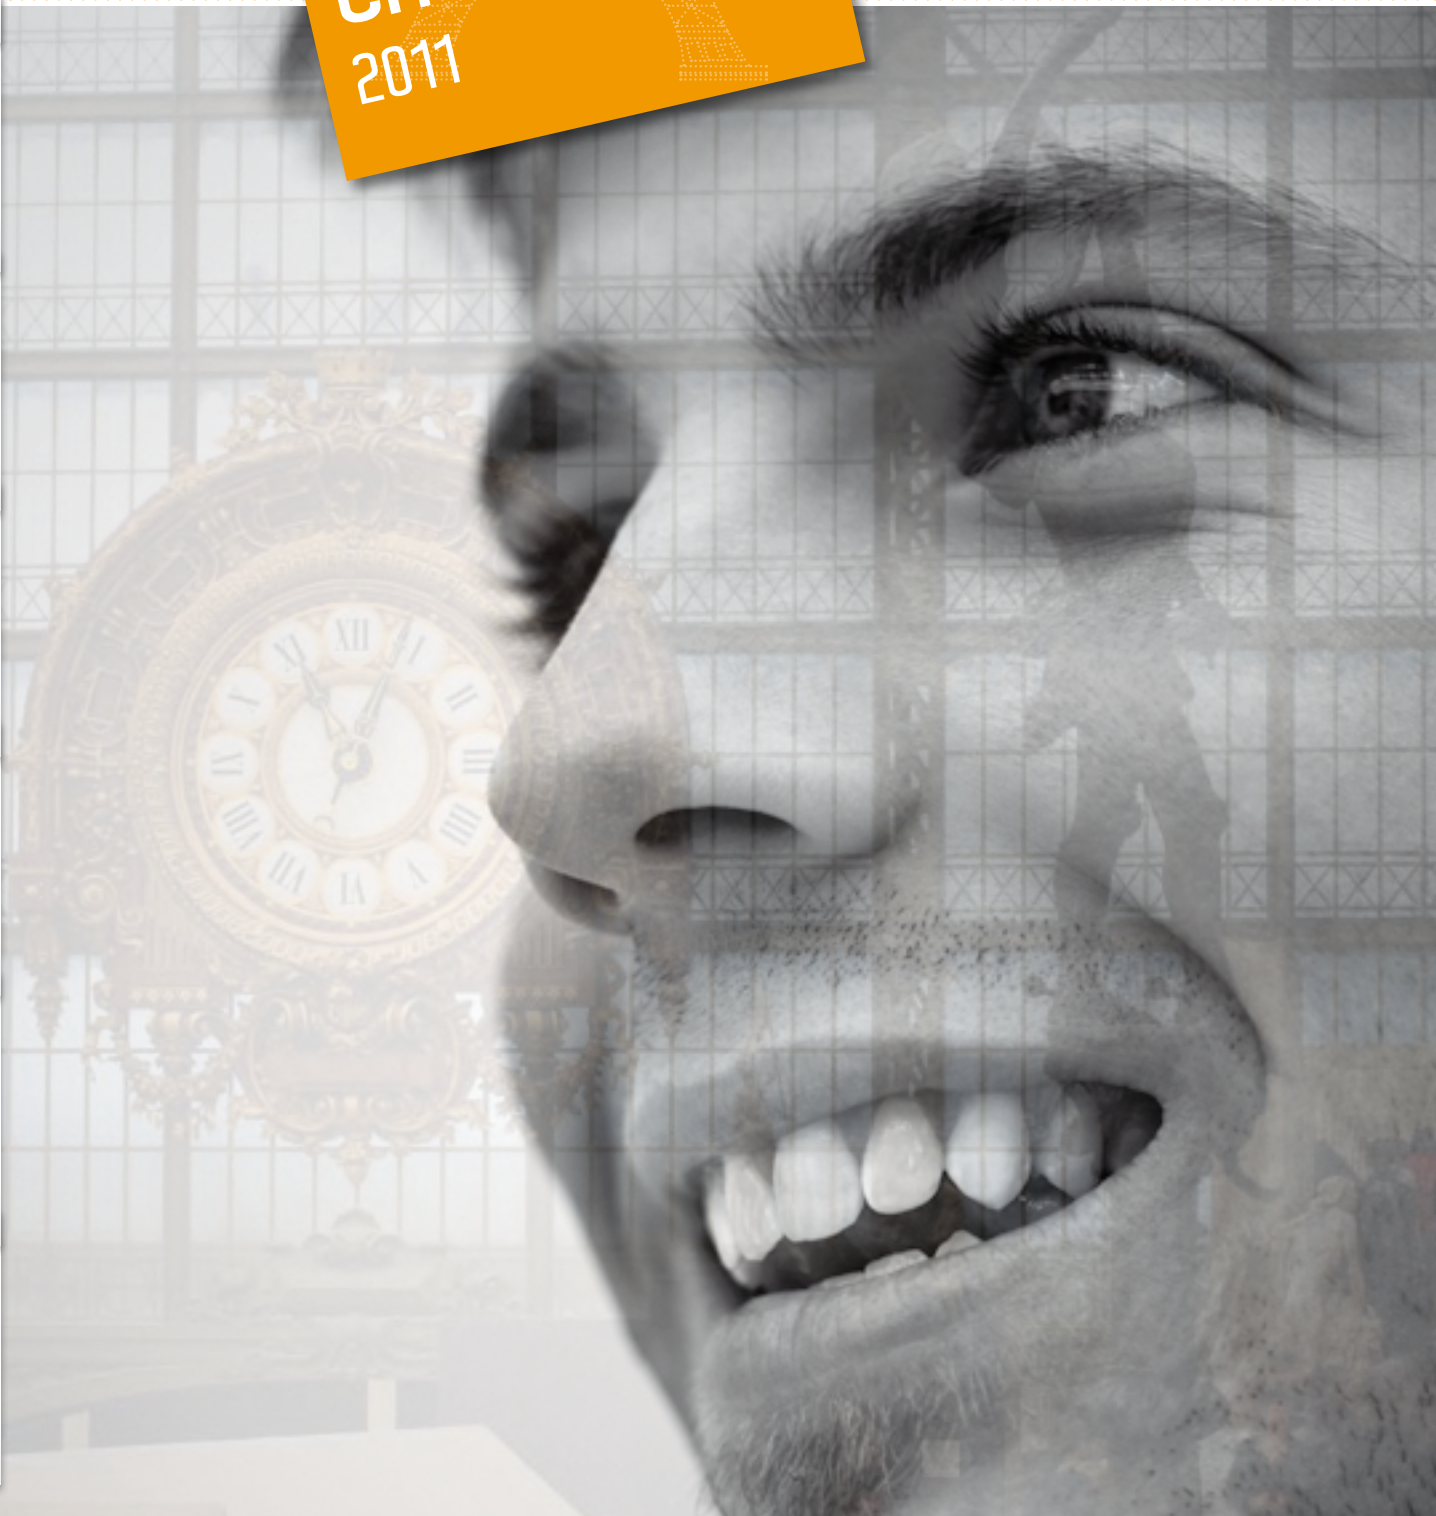

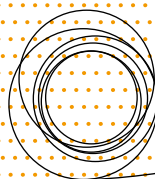

GALERIES NATIONALES,
GRAND PALAIS, PARIS → INFO P32

From 6th October 2012
to 28th January 2013

A first major exhibition devoted to Edward Hopper (1882-1967). A very wide-ranging selection of his work is collected together here: paintings, watercolours, engravings and illustrations. The first part of this retrospective is devoted to his years in training, the second looks at his return to the United States. This period saw his style become confirmed, the idealisation of his subjects sometimes reaching the level of abstraction. Claimed as one of their own by all schools, Edward Hopper is a realist, regionalist, romantic and even surrealist artist.

le nouveau Paris

Île-de-France

The Paris Île-de-France Tourist Board (Comité Régional du Tourisme Paris Île-de-France) is the official body for promoting Paris Île-de-France as a tourist destination.

In order to encourage visitors to come to Paris time and again, the Tourist Board is developing:

- a promotion strategy based on events promotions: cultural exhibitions, festivals, sporting events, etc. There's always something happening in Paris!
- a new image of Paris Île-de-France by showing it as a constantly-evolving destination, which combines heritage and modernity, history and contemporary design.

The Tourist Board helps tourism and culture professionals to promote themselves internationally and develops strong partnerships with professionals worldwide.

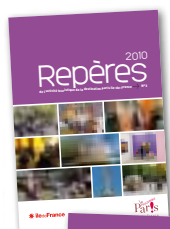

In order to convert this strategy into reality, the Tourist Board launched a new brand, "Le nouveau Paris Île-de-France" (The new Paris Île-de-France) and a new website in October 2008:

www.new-paris-idf.com
